BUSINESS METHODS EFFECT BIG SAVING FOR ENCAMPMENT Man Who Rebuilt Tabernacle Organ,

Handling of Finances-No Public Subscriptions for Salt Lake Encampment.

The average cost of holding a national Grand Army encampment was at one time $94,000. Since 1897, however, the old sollers' reunions have been carried on with less expense. This decrease in the cost of the encampments is believed to have been brought about because the affairs have been in charge of an executive officer, a member of the G. A. R. Previous to 1897 the arranger, ents for the different encampments were in charge of citizens' committees. While the business men of the various cities where the reunions have been held were aiways liberal in donating funds and assisting the old solders in every way they could, they were not able to give all the time necessary to committee meetings on account of business interests.

Indeed land planning for the event about half the amount expended by the citizens' cost only $41,000. Since the charge of an executive director of the G. A. R. the tabernacle organ in 1901. J. J. Appropriations Are Ample.

Fifty thousand dollars has been appropriated for the forty-third national entered for the state of Utah appropriated $35,000 of this amount, the city of Salt Lake in Algust. The state of Utah appropriated $35,000 and Salt Lake county $5,000. This amount will more than cover the cost of the encampment, so Colonel Frank M. Sterrett, executive director, says, and he intends to maintain a reserve fund of $5,000, as there are always many things coming up the last few weeks previous to the celebration which call for the spending of considerable money. This is the first time in the history of the Grand Army encampments that the citizens have not been called on for donations, and that is one reason why the department believes the people of Salt Lake should be willing to decorate their homes and places of business quite elaborately during the week of the encampment, and also be willing to conform to a certain design of decoration, which is to be decided upon by the committee appointed for that purpose.

The efforts of twenty-four different committees are being employed to make the forty-third reunion a success. Forty-five thousand dollars will be divided among these committees, and it will be the duty of the committeemen to see that their apportionment is not overdrawn. The money will be apportioned according to the work of each committee.

Care of Old Soldiers.

While many features are being arranged for the coming encampment, one of the most important and one upon which the department is laying much emphasis is the care of the old soldiers. The medical corps will be in charge of Dr. W. F. Beer, and he will ask a number of other local physicians to assist him. One of the hospitals will be pressed into service or else the department will establish a hospital, which can be reached quickly from the heart of the city. Besides a number of professional nurses who will be hired to attend the veterans, there will be many volunteers. Emergency automobiles will be in service that week. The day of the big parade these cars will travel back and forth over the line of march while the parade is in progress. In each car here will be a physician and nurse, prepared to give assistance to any old soldier. While many features are being arranged there will be a physician and nurse, pre-pared to give assistance to any old sol-dier who may need attention.

It is not an unusual sight while wit-nessing a G. A. R. parade to see a sil-very-haired hero drop out of the line. Possibly it is his last march or perhaps it is a case of heat prostration. At these times the doctors and nurses are most necessary, and at every encampment they have done wonderful work.
